

News from NATCA President Nick Daniels: We Support All of our Air Traffic Controllers

NOTE: Earlier today, President Daniels shared the following message on social media, educating the public on the highly-selective process for becoming a certified professional controller:

"Air traffic controllers earn the prestigious and elite status of being a fully certified professional controller after successfully completing a series of rigorous training milestones. The standards to achieve certification are not based on race or gender. The proud men and women that comprise the nations aviation safety professionals bear the immense responsibility of ensuring the safety and efficiency of the national airspace system, while working short-staffed, often 6 days a week, and in facilities long overdue for modernization.

We are committed to working with President Trump to recruit the best and brightest, while addressing critical issues like pay, benefits, and the mounting stresses that come with this demanding job."

NATCA News Alert: Tune in Tonight for President Nick Daniels on NBC Nightly News with Lester Holt, Starting at 6:30 p.m. EST.

NATCA President Nick Daniels joins Lester Holt tonight on NBC. The show begins at 6:30 p.m. EST/5:30 p.m. CST. For those unable to watch live, NATCA will share clips from the interview as they become available.

TUNE IN

NATCA MEDIA APPEARANCE

Starting at approximately 6:30 p.m. EST,
NATCA President Nick Daniels will be on

 NBC
NIGHTLY NEWS
with LESTER HOLT

Visit our Website

NATCA | 1325 Massachusetts Ave NW | Washington, DC 20005 US

Unsubscribe | Update Profile | Constant Contact Data Notice